2017 Wake Up to UND
President Mark Kennedy
City’s Sales Tax Measure to Fund Street Improvements and Water Treatment Plant

GRAND FORKS, N.D. – The Chamber of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks, and the Grand Forks Region Economic Development Corporation announced their support for the city’s sales tax measure to fund the newly built Grand Forks Water Treatment Plant, as well as much-needed street improvements throughout the city. The measure would implement a half-cent sales tax over the next 20 years to pay for both projects.

It is estimated that the sales tax would result in $5 million per year, with 60-percent helping pay for street repairs and 40-percent paying for the water treatment plant. The measure would sunset after 20 years.

Wake Up to UND

GRAND FORKS, N.D. – The Chamber of Commerce GF/EGF, and the University of North Dakota teamed up for another successful Wake Up to UND event. President Mark Kennedy spoke about “Leaders in Action” and the UND Pride of the North band provided an enthusiastic closing to the program.
GROW Minnesota Shows Opportunity in EGF

As announced last May, the Chamber and the East Grand Forks EDA partnered with Grow Minnesota!, a distinctive business retention and assistance program led by the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce.

Barry Wilfaht of the Chamber and Paul Gorte of the EDA visited 13 EGF businesses during the summer. The businesses reflect a cross-section of employers with a business focus that expands beyond the local area. They are pleased to announce their findings. In general the findings are highly favorable to East Grand Forks but express reservations about the business climate, tax structure, and regulatory environment in Minnesota on a statewide level.

East Grand Forks is a stable, locally controlled business environment. In general there is room to meet the current need and to expand.

• Local companies are diversifying and doing quite well.
• Workforce demand continues to grow.
• Workforce development must be a priority for future growth and expansion.
• EGF companies are in a growth mode and have plans for new investments.

The companies shared their thoughts about the State and local area. They are concerned with the business climate in Minnesota. The companies talked about Minnesota taxes, Workers Comp rates, minimum wage, State mandates, higher taxes resulting from the reassessments in Polk County, and the regulatory climate, specifically MCPA.

In contrast, EGF fared well. The companies talked about the need for another bridge. They praised employee and community loyalty. They noted City Hall is responsive. The companies said East Grand Forks is a solid community to do business in. They also noted the challenges of the weather. In short, they look favorably on East Grand Forks.

North Dakota Defense Summit Presented by ADC

October 10-11, 2017
Alerus Center - 1200 South 42nd Street, Grand Forks, ND 58201

North Dakota quickly is establishing itself as a center for excellence in technology, aerospace and defense innovation. Three installations — Grand Forks Air Force Base, Minot Air Force Base, and the North Dakota Air National Guard Hector Field in Fargo — host critical missions that are driving new technologies and unique partnerships. Minot is home to the 91st Missile Wing and the 5th Bomb Wing, both of which make up key components of the nuclear triad. Grand Forks is home to the 319th Air Force Wing, which hosts unmanned aerial vehicle reconnaissance missions, high frequency global satellite missions, and the 10th Space Warning Squadron just north at Cavalier Air Force Station. Fargo hosts the 119th Air National Guard Wing providing trained and ready airmen executing world class MQ-9 precision attack and reconnaissance missions. Supporting these missions requires new thinking, so community, industry and military leaders are forging innovative partnerships that can be models for other communities and installations across the country.

Join us in Grand Forks for a two-day forum that will bring together key leaders from DOD, North Dakota defense communities, the state and industry to explore the issues and innovative partnerships that are defining the future of northern tier defense communities.

Chamber Park Update

About a half dozen trees were removed from the Chamber Park between the Chamber’s Old Depot building and the Toasted Frog.

Later this fall the plan is to remove all of the brick in the park and plant grass.

Working with the Park District and City, next spring several improvements are being considered but according to 2017 Chamber Board Chair, Matt Walkowiak getting the park “cleaned up” is the chamber priority on its facility plan for 2017-18”.

According to Chamber President, Barry Wilfahrt the Chamber Board feels the park serves as a valuable entrance feature for the only downtown non road entrance to the greenway.

Henry Havig Nominations Now Being Accepted

2017 Henry Havig Award For Community Service

Nominations are now being accepted for the 2017 Henry Havig Award for Community Service. This is The Chamber’s most prestigious award and is given annually to those special individuals who stand above the crowd by their dedication to our community through community service in multiple volunteer leadership roles. It is an award that recognizes individuals who have provided exemplary voluntary leadership service to our community over a long period of time and in a broad spectrum of community activities. Nominees must be at least 36 years of age and have proven leadership qualities, commitments to community based organizations and the desire to improve the quality of life in our community. The Havig Award for Community Service is given in memory of a great community leader. Henry Havig was president of the board of the chamber in 1955-1956 and was a long time successful businessman who contributed greatly to our community as a member of the Grand Forks City Council and a life-long contributor to the YMCA. Please complete and return a nomination by Monday, November 21st, 2017 to: The Chamber 202 N. 3rd St. Grand Forks, ND 58203 or email to: info@gochamber.org. Additional information regarding the nominee may be included when submitting the nomination. The Selection Committee is comprised of the past recipients of the award. This award will be presented at The Chamber’s Annual Dinner and Banquet on January 26th, 2017 at The Alerus Center.

Nominations shall include:

1. Nominee’s Name

2. Leadership qualities, organization memberships, youth involvement, community service and other pertinent and relevant information

3. Name and signature of person submitting the nomination

“Our mission is to create an environment that encourages business growth and job creation while enhancing the quality of life in our region. That’s why The Chamber and the EDC are encouraging a Yes vote on November 7 for the half-cent sales tax proposed by the City of Grand Forks,” said Matt Walkowiak, co-chair of the Vote Yes on November 7 campaign committee. “There is no question that our city needs better street conditions, or that we needed to build the new water treatment plant. After much discussion with our members and the public at-large, we strongly believe the fairest and most effective way to fund these priorities is to implement a half-cent sales tax, thereby spreading the payments among all those who use Grand Forks’ infrastructure, not just local residents.”

“The Chamber has discussed this issue with our membership and the community at-large,” said Rachel Gornowicz, co-chair of the Vote Yes on November 7 campaign committee. “It is clear from those discussions that it would not be appropriate to raise property taxes, thereby asking property owners alone to pay to our infrastructure. Nor would it be economical to fund the water treatment plant through water rate increases. Using the sales tax much more appropriately and equitably spreads the responsibility across all those who use our streets and water. We believe that this is the right way to accomplish what we all need.”

By utilizing a sales tax, The Chamber and the EDC also believes there will be less pressure on local property taxes or water rates, which may otherwise be affected.

The measure will be on the ballot as part of the special city election on November 7. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. All residents can vote at the Alerus Center or by absentee ballot.

Dr. Daniel Persinger Joins Altru Health System

Grand Forks, N.D. – Daniel Persinger, MD, joins the general surgery team at Altru Health System. “It is my goal to treat others better than myself. I try to look after my patients’ well-being and needs, even if it means working late or losing sleep,” states Dr. Persinger.

Dr. Persinger earned his medical degree from Wright State University Boonshoft School of Medicine in Dayton, Ohio. He completed his general surgery residency at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, North Dakota. In his free time, he enjoys running, riding bike, working in the yard and tinkering in the garage. He attends Freedom Church in downtown Grand forks and participates in a curling league during the winter.

Dr. Ahmad Qawasmi Joins Altru Health System

Grand Forks, N.D. – Ahmad Qawasmi, MD, joins the pediatric team at Altru Health System. Dr. Qawasmi earned his medical degree from Al-Quds University, Al-Quds Faculty of Medicine in Jerusalem. He completed his residency at Children’s Hospital of Michigan in Detroit, Michigan, then went on to join the pediatric hematology and oncology program at UT Southwestern Medical Center, Children’s Medical Center in Dallas, Texas. Outside of work, he enjoys photography, gardening and birdwatching.

Dr. James Miles Joins Altru Health System

Grand Forks, N.D. – James Miles, MD, joins the neurology team at Altru Health System, specializing in the treatment of neurologic diseases such as seizures, migraine headaches and developmental delays in pediatric patients. Dr. Miles is one of three pediatric neurology specialists in the state of North Dakota.

“I do my very best to address the needs of the patient and their family. This requires a multidisciplinary team that I am just one part of,” he states. “Treating the whole patient results in the best outcomes.”

Dr. Miles earned his medical degree from the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences in Grand Forks, North Dakota. He completed his Pediatric and Adolescent Medicine Residency, as well as his Child Neurology Fellowship, at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota.

Outside of work, he loves spending time outdoors hunting, fishing, camping and biking. Dr. Miles plays several instruments such as the bass guitar, acoustic and electric guitar. He shares his love of music by playing on the worship team at Freedom Church in Grand Forks. He especially loves to spend time with his wife, Karley, their daughter, Noryn, and their family and friends.

Marco Named One Of The 50 Best Places To Work By Prairie Business

GRAND FORKS, N.D., AUGUST 28, 2017 – Marco was named one of the 50 Best Places to Work for 2017 by Prairie Business magazine for the fourth year in a row on Monday, August 28. Companies were nominated through an anonymous employee satisfaction survey and rated in areas including work environment, employee benefits and happiness.

“The 50 Best companies clearly recognize employee satisfaction as one of the keys to productivity and profitability,” says Tom Dennis, editor of Prairie Business. “That comes through in the surveys over and over again. We all know how hard we’ll work to satisfy a good manager. Turns out people feel the same way about their employer…and when the employer goes the extra mile, the employees do, too.”

In its fourth year hosting the Best Places to Work contest, Prairie Business received more than 1,000 nominations from employees in North Dakota, South Dakota and western Minnesota. The 50 Best winners will be honored in the September publication, and will be available on the web at prairiebusinessmagazine.com.

Edgewood Healthcare Celebrates Fifth Executive Director in Training Program Graduate

(Grand Forks, N.D.) Edgewood Healthcare celebrates the fifth graduate, Zachary Downs, from its Edgewood Senior Living Executive Director in Training Program. Zach was recently named the new Executive Director of Edgewood May Creek Senior Living Campus in Walker, MN.

The Executive Director in Training Program is an intensive educational experience designed specifically to provide individuals with a broad base of operational knowledge and skills for leadership as a licensed Executive Director in an Edgewood Assisted Living and Memory Care community. The program exemplifies and ensures Edgewood’s commitment to the Standards of Excellence and Core Cultural Values for the best possible outcomes in terms of quality and value for our customers and financial success for our investors.

The goal of this program is to provide a guide for educational, practical and clinical experiences that will help individuals develop identifiable competencies and grow as a professional utilizing his or her unique style of leadership as an Executive Director.

“We are thrilled to continue developing strong internal candidates through Edgewood’s Executive Director in Training program. Zach will fill a needed role in our company, and as a proven leader, he will ensure Edgewood continues providing the highest-quality services, care and accommodations,” said Russell G. Kubik, President of Edgewood Healthcare.

“I am excited to announce Zach’s well-deserved Executive Director appointment in Walker,” said Ross Huttunen, Edgewood Healthcare Regional Vice President, Region II (Minnesota and Fargo, ND). “Zach’s Executive Director in Training internship was based here in Minnesota and we’re especially pleased that he will stay on as a part of our regional team; he’s passionate, driven and truly cares for our residents,” continued Huttunen.

A native of Lake Park, Minnesota, Zach is a graduate of Concordia College, Moorhead, MN, where he earned his degree in Healthcare Administration with an emphasis in Hospital Administration and Long-Term Care Administration. Zach’s strong relationship with his grandparents fostered an appreciation for the senior population. His passion for caring for seniors only grew and strengthened from his administrative internship he completed during college. Zach is thrilled to join the Edgewood team and is committed to ensuring that our residents receive a high quality of care and have a superior quality of life. In Zach’s free time he enjoys exercising, playing basketball and spending time with family and friends at the lake.

Zach is thankful to have been provided the opportunity to expand his knowledge base and skills through the Edgewood Executive Director in Training Program and is excited to join the Edgewood May Creek team in September.

Ruit Appointed Associate Dean For Education And Faculty Affairs At Und School Of Medicine & Health Sciences

GRAND FORKS, N.D.—Kenneth G. Ruit, Ph.D., associate professor in the Department of Biomedical Sciences, has been named associate dean for education and faculty affairs at the UND School of Medicine and Health Sciences (SMHS). Ruit previously served as associate dean for educational administration and faculty affairs.

Among other responsibilities, in his new role Dr. Ruit will provide leadership, support and oversight for undergraduate, graduate, professional and postdoctoral education in alignment with the school’s strategic plan; oversee academic personnel processes for all faculty, including recruitment, appointments, evaluation, promotion and tenure; manage a school-wide effort to optimize faculty professional development opportunities; and act as a liaison between the SMHS and other UND colleges, departments, programs and administrative units.

“Graduates from our innovative and high-quality programs and our faculty’s remarkable research achievements are impacting healthcare in North Dakota and nationwide,” said Dr. Ruit. “That’s a reflection of the value the School places on cultivating and sustaining an environment in which students and faculty members can achieve their personal and professional goals. I am excited to be given the opportunity to serve the School in this role.”

Dr. Ruit received his Ph.D. in Cell Biology, Neurobiology and Anatomy from Loyola University of Chicago in 1989. A faculty member at the SMHS since 1991, he teaches human anatomy and neuroscience to undergraduate, graduate and medical students. He has served UND in a variety of administrative roles since 1998. First serving as assistant dean for academic and faculty affairs in 2008, Dr. Ruit assumed the role of associate dean for educational administration and faculty affairs in 2014.
North Dakota Simulation Center Receives Sustaining Grant

GRAND FORKS, N.D.—The Simulation Center at UND’s School of Medicine and Health Sciences (SMHS) has received the first half of a two-year $250,000 grant for a project entitled “Sustaining the SIM-ND Program.” The multi-sponsor grant was awarded jointly by five health care providers from across the state: Altru Health System, Essentia Health, CHI St. Alexius Health, Sanford Health – Fargo, and Trinity Health. Each provider has agreed to contribute $25,000 per year to the SMHS Simulation Center for two years.

“Simulation in Motion—North Dakota [SIM-ND] has reached more than 11,000 learners, provided more than 1,100 continuing education hours, and traveled at least 94,000 miles in the four years the program has existed,” said Amy Malheim, M.S., program administrator for the Simulation Center. “Through the continued partnership between the UND SMHS and the five major health systems in the state, SIM-ND will continue to carry out its mission of improving the health of all current and future North Dakota residents.”

The SMHS Simulation Center is a hands-on simulation training facility for multidisciplinary health care providers. The state-of-the-art space offers a clinical setting where health care professionals can actively apply their knowledge in simulations, observation, and debriefing of real-life patient scenarios, with the goal of improving patient safety and care. The innovative facility is the only one of its kind in North Dakota; its mission is to use interactive simulation in teaching, educating, and providing an arena for research in health care.

North Dakota’s ‘Best Warriors’ Compete For Top Honors

Camp Grafton Training Center, N.D. — The North Dakota Army National Guard’s top Soldiers forged through an exhausting four days of military challenges to test their Army skills and aptitudes, spirit and durability. Seventeen Guardsmen from across the state fought through adversity to try to outscore their fellow competitors during this year’s Best Warrior Competition Aug. 17-20 at Camp Grafton Training Center, near Devils Lake, North Dakota.

When the winners were announced during the final day’s awards ceremony, two Army Guardsmen earned the opportunity to advance and represent North Dakota in future competitions. Sgt. Timothy Sybrant, of Lincoln, North Dakota, a member of the Jamestown-based 817th Engineer Company (Sapper), was the winner of the Best Warrior Competition in the noncommissioned officer category. In the enlisted-level competition, Spc. Brandon Wendland, of Fargo, North Dakota, a member of the Bismarck-based 957th Engineer Company (Multi-Role Bridge), took top honors.

“You all have exhibited strong leadership skills just by volunteering to participate in this competition. You are all winners,” Brig. Gen. Robert Fode, North Dakota National Guard Army Component commander, said to the competitors during the awards ceremony. “You are the future of this organization. You are the next leaders; you are the ones to set the standard for those who are next to come into the North Dakota National Guard. Remember to continue to do the best you can, every time you go out and do it, no matter what it is.”

Foster awarded multiyear grant from National Institutes of Health

GRAND FORKS, N.D.—James Foster, Ph.D., assistant professor in the Department of Biomedical Sciences at UND’s School of Medicine and Health Sciences (SMHS), has won a two-year award in the amount of $417,000 for a project titled “Dopamine Transporter Palmitoylation.” The grant was awarded by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and the National Institutes of Health through a program that promotes the inclusion of undergraduate and graduate students in research.

Palmitoylation is a reversible cellular process wherein lipids (fatty acids) are attached to proteins for the purpose of adjusting protein function and activity. Dr. Foster (right) and his colleagues have identified the dopamine transporter (DAT) as a palmitoylated protein. Dopamine is a chemical “messenger” that sends signals between neurons (nerve cells) and is highly regulated by the dopamine transporter, which transports dopamine back into the neuron from which it was released. Any irregularities that emerge in this process may result in one of several dopamine-related disorders of the central nervous system.

“The proposed research is especially relevant to public health because the dopamine transporter is essential for normal neurotransmission,” explained Dr. Foster. “Defects in transporter regulation may be involved with psychiatric and neurodegenerative disorders such as schizophrenia, attention deficit disorder, Parkinson’s, and cocaine and methamphetamine addiction. So figuring out how these processes work in neurons will help us determine how to better treat, if not prevent, these conditions.”

Dr. Foster’s previous research studies have found that DAT transport activity is controlled by palmitoylation. Specifically, palmitoylation has been shown to increase DAT activity and can be modified in animals in the presence of addictive drugs such as amphetamine. Dr. Foster’s latest study is expected to substantially advance human understanding of the role of this previously unknown DAT lipid modification on transporter function, and may provide insights into how problems of DAT regulation can lead to neurological disease, including drug abuse.
